

Walking Day #119, Sunday, December 23, 2012...short day

Posted on Dec 24, Posted by Administrator Category The Walk Blog

Today we just did 11.4 miles 18.3871 km's) with 23,497 steps. Findings for the day: 1 plastic oil change pan (un-used), 1 pair needle nosed pliers, 1 nail set, 1 large #12 socket, 1 small 5/32" socket, 1 debit card for Verna M, 1 length blue nylon rope (12ish feet), 3 quarters, 4 dimes, 1 nickel and 12 pennies. Vic went and played a round of golf while I rested my body, walked football and took a nap. Best wishes to former navy man, Roger, whom we met leaving the supermarket. Thank you for your service. Should be in Branson by days end tomorrow. We are right on the southern edge of the big snow storm so we may or may not get interesting weather of the next few days...we shall see. CHEERS!!!

we ended the day going from Nixa to the Highlandville exit from route 65 south.

Tags: Untagged