

walking day #22, HDOTY!!!

Posted on Jul 09, Posted by Administrator Category The Walk Blog

toasty, Toasty, TOASTY!!!...I am sure well over 93.2 today (34C, 552.87 Rankine), since temperature is measured in the shade AND I saw precious little of that let's just say it was HOT!!!...23.5 miles, 45,394 steps!!!...three fill-ups for the 100oz CamelBack and two juice bottles (500 ml each), working on a cold beer now...again and still the terrain is gorgeous, lakes, rivers, creeks, deer, hawks, ants eating semi-dead horse-flies, mother nature at her finest...currently at Christina Lake at the Parklane RV park, kind of a nice little spot...tomorrow I should make it through here...went from Greenwood to Grand Forks today...three or four more walking days and we should be in Castlegar, my mother's home, however there is one stretch of 27 km that is a constant upgrade!!!...no great insights today, just another stroll down life's lane...cheers!!!

Tags: Untagged