

day #37...I smell prairie!!!

Posted on Aug 02, Posted by Administrator Category The Walk Blog

today we went from mountains to foothills on the way to VAST prairie, easier walking, less concentrated population (read: fewer RV parks and "rest stops")...oh well Lewis & Clark managed it!!!...today we got in 21.2 miles (34.1935 km's) with 40,189 steps...collected today along the road: 1 useable flat-head, no-name screw driver, 1 plastic "Nemo" (or his first fishy cousin!!!), 1 Nike yellow "Crush" golf ball, 5 cent Canadian Tire coupon, 1 chain link connector (look it up), 1 penny, 1 nickel and 1 loonie...walked right through the "Frank Slide" a graveyard of some 70-90 people, after almost 110 years (110 metric years!) there is still very little if any vegetation, a couple of trees, very quite and desolate place...Thursday will be a "mental health" day, laundry, nap, foot rest, light due fix, etc...at this rate we should be in Montana before I take my Ireland break (flight leaves the 22nd)...flexibility and communication are as important today as ever...Friday will be Pincher Creek with Sunday a moving day, probably to Raymond where my sister Roxy and her family (Heart's Haven Ranch) live...see ya'll down the road...cheers!!!
